Story of the Captain of the Thingvalla. COLBY BROS. HOTEL, ON FIFTH

Carelessness of the Geiser's Watch the Cause.

An Appalling Picture of the Sinking of the Ship.

The Thingvalla's Perilous Voyage to Halifax After the Disaster-Previous Reports as to the Number of the Drowned Verified-To Be Investigated.

By Telegraph to The Times.

HALIFAX (N. S.), Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Thingvalla, which was in collision with the steamer Geiser, arrived here this morning. She presents a strange spectacle, with nearly her whole bow torn away, leaving an im-mense hole exposed to view. A long piece bow hangs over the hole, which reached back into the sides of the ship over 15 feet. The projecting piece hangs over the water like an outstretched arm, and shows where the powerful iron plates were broken through and snapped off as if cardboard. turougn and snapped on as it cardooard.
Wonder is expressed that she ever reached port. The disabled vessel will discharge her cargo and go on the slip to be repaired.
She will be here probably two months.
After repairing she is to reload and proceed for New Yerk. Capt. Lamb has enforced silence upon his seamen as to the disaster, but has himself prepared a statement of the details of the collision, as he knows and saw it. His story is much the same as those told by other seamen vesterday.

CAPT. LAME'S STATEMENT.

He says: "The scene as the Thingvalla backed awayfrom the Geiser was a frightful ene. I cannot attempt to describe it. Some of her passengers were rushing madly about her deck, while others were crowded in several small boats in the water. 1 believe many passengers must have been killed in their bunks by the force of the collision and never knew what happened. As the steamer plunged beneath the water, carrying down those on board, sne capsion, the boats that had got away. The air was rent with agonizing shrieks and prayers.

Most of the people probably went down

They were followed soon with the Geiser. They were followed soon after by the ill-fated souls in the boats, who who must have been sucked under as the ship sunk. The cries of the dying are still were already launched and trying to save as many as they could from the doomed Gelser, but it was slow work. Comparatively few minaged to keep afloat as the steamer disappeared. Three boats were all we could get out in time, and I didn't know but what we might want the remaining ones for ourselves. The two vessels were not more than 100 or 150 feet apart when the Geiser went down.

THE SCREAMS OF THE DROWNING lasted perhaps two minutes, and then suddenly all became quiet. Our three boats returned loaded with the saved who had been picked up. I sent the boats back to continue the search for survivors, but they returned with only the corpse of a woman. We provided the survivors with dry clothes and hot coffee and wine, and made them as comfortable as possible, while attending to the injured among ourselves. The day was just beginning to break when the collision occurred. It was raining, the second officer told me, just before. It was not foggy. In my opinion, nearly all the people on the Geiser's deck and boats sank with the steamer. Everything we could with the steamer. Everything we could possibly do to save them was done. After the Geiser disappeared, we began jettisoning the cargo to keep the Thingvalla afloat. The crew and passengers worked side by side, throwing overboard what was brought up the hold. What was jettisoned consisted solely of wool, pulp and provisions. There was not much wind, but a heavy sea. Between 9 and 10 o'clock we reached the forward bulkhead. We then stopped throwing the cargo overboard, and got to work, shoring up the compartment. At 9 o'clock the steamer Wieland, for New York, hove in sight, and we transferred all the rescued passengers, as well as our own 400 passengers to her. The Wieland proceeded about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, leaving us also steering for New York. We continued to work, shoring up the compartment, but after a while, on account of the wind and sea increasing, we found it impossible to keep on for New York, and decided to head for Halifax. At this time it still looked very much as if we should be the still looked very much as if we should be the still looked were the still To LET-AT 241 HILL ST., TWO possibly do to save them was done. Cleversy and I engaged her to stand by and accompany the steamer to Halifax, so as to be able to help us in case the Thingvalla should go down. Last night was so heavy I had to turn the steamer round, running stern foremost and steering by the schooner, which was connected by a hawser with the steamer's bow. We ran against the wind in this way all night. We did not know on the Thingvalla what steamer we struck till the second officer of the Gelser jumped on our deck. When I reached the deck, immediately after the shock, the lights on both the steamers were burning all right. Of that I am certain. The Geiser had been seen by our first officer several minutes before the collision. She was nearly straight ahead, but a little bit on the port bow. She starboarded to get out of the way and we ported. She should have ported likewise. From Capt. Lamb's statement of the disaster it would appear that the fault lay with those on board the Geiser, who put her to starboard instead of to port. The Geiser officer who was on the watch at the time of the collision was among those who perished. Capt. Lamb himself does not express an opinion on the cause of the disaster.

TO LET-CORNER STORE ON FORT NUMBER OF THE LOST. New York, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] Capt. Moller of the steamer Geiser, sunk off Sable Island, puts the loss of life at 105. The Geiser carried 93 passengers and a crew of 43. Of the passengers 14 were saved, of the country have been notified to send lists of tickets sold on the Geiser. One and a half tickets were sold in Woscester, Mass., both holders being lost; 14½ in St. Paul, of which three holders were saved; 41½ in Chicago, six saved; one in Philadelphia, saved; 23 here, three saved. The absence of news from the Thingvalla caused considerable uneashness here this morning, as it was thought that the Thingvalla should have reached Halifax by this time. Later in the day a dispatch was received from Halifax announcing the arrival of the Thingvalla at that port.

ONE CARL BROWNE.

FURTHER FACTS ABOUT THE NOTORIOUS SCAMP.

History of the Browne-Barry Trial, a Synopsis of the Testimony-How Browne Betrayed and Robbed Associates-"impossible to Libel Such a Character," Said the

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—[Special Correspondence of The Times.] In a previous letter I gave your readers a sketch of the crooked career of the notorious Carl Browne, closing with a statement of the failure his libel suit against James H. Barry, editor of the Weekly Star, the labor organ. Mr. Barry, after relating to me the circumstances under which the suit was brought, gave an account of the trial and a SYNOPSIS OF THE TESTIMONY, which was as follows:

The case was called December 4, 1886. Browne was represented by H. H. Hot-comb and the notorious Lowenthal; Barry by Senator Pat Reddy, E. P. Cole and W.

CHARLES FELTON was the first witness called to the stand. He testified that he knew Browne. Didn't know whether Browne had ever called on him or not. Believed he had met him once during the campaign. His memory being refreshed by counsel, he admitted he met Browne one night after midnight at the Palace Hotel, Browne asked him for money for campaign purposes, but he declined to give him any. Didn't think it strange that Browne should want money from him when he was championing the cause of another candidate (Redstone) for Congress, because he didn't know Browne was running a political machine. him or not. Believed he had met him once

STEPHEN T. GAGE, called, testified he knew Browne and conealled, testined he knew Browne and con-fessed he had paid him money. It was for advertising, but what advertising he couldn't tell. Witness's testimony that the railroad was not in politics created some merriment. Couldn't tell how long the railroad had been out of politics.

was the next witness. His memory proved very poor. Being asked if he was the publisher of the 'Open Letter," said he thought he was. Started it in 1878. Published it from May, 1880, to August, 1886, several times, he should think. He at first couldn't recall a paper named "The Graphic," which he published in 1880 as a Greenback paper, and which "flopped" the lay before the election to the Republican party by publishing a cartoon ridiculing the Greenbackers and exalting the Republicans. He finally remembered the paper but could not explain the cause of the "flop."

While he was chairman of the United abor party, Browne adm. 'ed he had gone o see Congressman Felton several times efore the recent election. The first time e met Felton he was accompanied by W. f. Grace. "I asked Mr. Felton for money," aid witness in answer to questions. "I T. Grace. "I asked Mr. Felton for money, and witness in answer to questions. "I asked him for enough to print our entire tieket with. I asked him as a personal favor and on my own responsibility. At that time I supposed Redstone was not the that time I supposed Redstone was not the proper candidate for Congress of our party, although I was ardently advocating his election in my paper. I had supported him up to that time. When I 'struck' Felton it didn't hurt him much, and we went and had a drink together. The ticket I was speaking about to Felion was the ticket of the United Labor arty." He admitted he had met Stephen? Gage in the reception room of the board of directors of the Central Pacific. He had receive. an amount of money from Gage, but didn't know what it was for; subsequently said it was for services rendered. When asked what those services were, he couldn't exactly remember, but "it was for advertising."

After counsel spent some time vainly endeavoring to have him explain the nature of this advertising. Senator Reddy showed him the cartoon representing the editor of the Star as an assassin stabbing Senator Stanford in the back. He was asked if that was the advertisement paid for by the railroad. After some hesitancy he admitted that it was; that he was paid $300 or $400 for it, but the exact amount he did not recoilect. Gage saw the subject before it was sent to the printer. Other cartoons caricaturing Senator Reddy, Judge Maguire and others were also admitted by Browne to have been inspired and paid for by the railroad.

for supreme judges, the witness's memory entirely failed him.

William H. Gagan, the Examiner reporter before alluded to, was called, and testified as to various conversations with Browne, in one of which Browne told Gagan that $1500 was to be paid by some person for the privilege of naming certain persons as candidates for supreme judges on his ticket. Two hundred and fifty dollars were paid down, and the remainder was to be paid when the tickets were delivered to some person living on Van Ness avenue. The tickets, when printed, were conveyed in a coupé by one Grace, but as the money was not forthcoming Browne went in person to the house, but returned without either money or tickets. He told Gagan that the occupant of the house on Van Ness avenue was Frank G. Newlands. Gagan at one time ridiculed Browne's "party." "Did you ever," asked Browne, 'hear of a fellow going into a poker game with a pair of deuces and

MAKING A BIG BLUFF? Well, that's my game. I've put a few dollars into this racket, and expect to make a big stake. A day or two more will decide whether I will or not." This was before

H. L. KNIGHT testified that Browne's reputation for honesty was bad. He had heard Browne say in the presence of others that he went into the Workingmen's party for what he could make out of it. He published the "Open make out of it. He published the "Open Letter" for his own purposes, and not under the authority of the Labor party, of which Knight was-secretary. On one occasion a play written by Knight was put on at Union Hall, and $600 collected for the party, all of which Browne appropriated. SENATOR JOHN LINEHAN

1878, and that Browne went into the Labor party solely to further his own ends Browne's reputation was decidedly bad.

EMIL NEY TESTIFIED that he had assisted Browne in much of his work. He had been to Stephen T. Gage and work. He had been to Stephen T. Gage and Creed Haymond on behalf of Browne, and had been promised one-half of what Browne received from the railroad magnates, but never got a cent. Ney went to several candidates during the election, Felton among others, and warned them against giving Browne money, but in several cases he was too late, and Browne was paid. Redstone, or some one for him, paid the anti-boss party $2000, and Brewne wanted a "divy," but failed to get it. Browne also tried to induce witness to enter a job to throw out McMann and put in Pearson as Sheriff, so that they could make some money. There was no paper authorized by the committee of the Labor party to be issued in its behalf. Browne and his wife in the bedroom constituted the committee. money, but in several cases he was too late, and Browne was paid. Redstone, or some one for him, paid the anti-boss party $300, and Browne wanted a "divy," but failed to get it. There was no paper authorized by the committee of the Labor party to be issued in its behalf. Browne and his wife in the bedroom constituted the committee.

JOHN P. DUNN,

State Controller, testified that he had known Browne since 1878. "I met him," continued the witness, "about the time of the Workingmen's movement, when he started the 'Open Letter.' I had no business relations with him. He would not come to me because I knew him too well. I know him to be a liar, and he has lied about mea number of times.

I WOULD NOT TRUST BROWNE IN ANY TRANSACTION.

I understand his reputation is that of a political trickster and that he belongs to political organization only to make money out of it. From conversations I have had with several people I know his reputation to be bad, and I believe the charges made by the Star are true."

by the Star are true."

was here called to the stand in his own behalf, and admitted the publication and authorship of the alleged libelous article. He testified that he believed it his duty to expose Browne as a fraud, to hold him up to scorn and prevent him from bleeding unwary candidates and humburging the people. The efforts of the prosecution to show that Barry, in publishing this article, was actuated by malice, because of Browne's cartoon, fell flat, when it was demenstrated that the cartoon was published in March, 1886, and that the article in the Star did not appear until October 28th of the same year, or nearly eight months afterward. This closed the defense. The prosecution introduces several witnesses in rebuttal, who could only testify as to their individual dealings with Browne and not as to his general reputation. Counsel for the defense offered to submit the case without argument, to which proposition the prosecuting attorneys refused to consent, but it would have been as well if they had, for after Attorney Edward P. Cole had reviewed the evidence, claiming that no testimony whatever had been offered in support of the charge, but that, on the contrary, the alleged libelous article was proven by the complainant's own testimony to be true and published for a laudable motive, the Court assented and dismissed the case. [In so doing the Court asid that it would be impossible to libel an man of Browne's reputation.]

"I understand," concluded Mr. Barry, "that Browne is pursuing his vocation in Los Angeles, and people ought to know with whom they're dealing. I shall not hesitate to show him up whenever loccasion calls for it, and if he is wise he will profit by his experience in this city, and not meddle with people who will-not have anything to do with him." It is in this spirit, and not from a desire to prevent any man from earning an honest living, that I have here outlined Carl Browne's record in San Francisco. It may be that Browne beradicated. W. Mrs. J. M. Whitney, president of the W. C.T.U. of the Hawaiian Islands, made an address, in the course of which many inter-eating facts were given relating to temper-ance work among the Hawaiians. It ap-pears that for 60 years a prohibitory law was in force among the Hawaiians, but was repealed in 1883, when a liquor law was passed allowing the Minister of the Interior or grant licenses to sell liquor to any one in repeated in 1983, when a induor law was passed allowing the Minister of the Interior to grant licenses to sell liquor to any one in Honoluin or elsewhere having a license to sell other goods. "Its results are too well known. The importation of liquors has increased from 100,000 to 300,000 gallons annually. Against the wishes and protests of all the best inhabitants salcons have been licensed and are in full operation in nearly every town of the country. Liquor stores have more than doubled in Honolulu. Drunken natives are daily seen upon our streets; the records of the police courts show their frequent arrests. By request, Mrs. Gilelen read again her essay on "Home Influence." She was fellowed by Mrs. Lodge, who claimed, in the course of her rousing address to women, a new kind of "protection," as, for instance: "We claim protection from the wrongs of human enactments; claim help to cultivate the heart for weal, while we seek to gain positions such as earth can neither give nor take away."

Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. Dr. Beach and Mrs. Chapin spoke most edifyingly on the same thame.

After donating a sum of money to a destitute family, the meeting adjourned.

An object of much interest was the miniature log cabin of orange wood, which occupied a place on a table at the right of the chairman. This memento, which has already been alluded to lin these columns, is to be forwarded to Gen. Harrison, together with an address from the club, a roll of membership and a list of ladies who subscribe to show their good will. The log cabin is the handiwork of A. J. Harrington, a veteran of the Mexican War and of the War of the Rebellion, a voter for W. H. Harrison in 1840 and a member of the Oro Fino Tippecanoe Club. It is artistically constructed in true ing-cabin fashion, with a stick chimbey, and comprises 112 separate pieces—one piece for each year since 1776. The door is hung with wooden hinges, the latchstring is on the outside, and the coonskin is shortly to be supplied.

In memory of the log-cabin campaign, hard cider was passed around the assemblage and served free, as well as lemonade. Walter S. Moore, president of the club, presided over the meeting. Speeches were made by Gen. H. G. Rollins, Maj. George H. Bonebrake, S. F. Spencer, Maj. C. M. Wells of the Tippecanoe Club, Gen. J. R. Brierly, candidate for the assembly, and R. C. O. At that time there was not a single man in the gity who knew him, but he proved to be a whole-souled, jolly fellow, and in a few days he had several friends who were ready to die for him. But he did not become well known in Los Angeles until 1853, when he joined Don Benito Wilson's rangers, who were about to start on an expedition against the desert Indians, who were given to horse-stealing and other playful habits in those days, much to the disgust of the few Americans who had selected Los Angeles for their home.

It was during this campaign that young Walters made hinself the most popular man in the community. Everybody liked him, and for over 30 years he made Los Angeles his home.

and for over 30 years he made Los Angeles his home.

He died last April a year ago and left a snuog fortune, but no family. So far as the world knew he had never during these long years taken unto himself a wife. His life had been devoted to money-making, and he had found no leisure for love-making. When he died last year it was found that he had left no will, and his money and real estate were turned over to the Public Administrator.

had left no will, and his money and real estate were turned over to the Public Administrator.

Every possible effort was made to discover some relative of the deceased, but without success, and so far as the officers of the court now know, he has not a relative in the world.

Durling his lifetime he never seemed to care to talk about his past life, but it is said by persons who claim to have known him before he came to Los Angeles that he was born and raised in New Orleans and that his parents were of royal blood and immensely wealthy. As the old story goss, he had some kind of a love scrape, but his parents and the parents of the young lady broke off the match, and he wandered out to Caifornia and settled in Los Angeles. This is the reason why he never seemed to care for women. In fact he might have been stamped as a womantater. The Public Administrator had advertised all over the country for Mr. Walters's relativos, and had about given up when a BOY AND GIRL.

put in an appearance and claimed to be the offspring of George Waiters.

Now comes the romantic part of the story. Shortly after George found that he was a rich man, he built for himself a fine house and made up his mind to live in ease until the last day of his life. But when the house was built and finished it had a cold, desolate appearance, and the old bachelor was puzzled for the first time in his life. He did not know at first what to do, and consulted with several of his friends. They saw at once what the trouble was, and told him to look up a housekeeper. It was some time before he could bring himself to believe that his house could not become a home until he had stocked it with petticoats, but he consented to take his friends' advice, and looked up a Mexican woman named Margaretta, who was duy installed as housekeeper. George's friends had intended that he should take unto himself a wife, and, when they found what he had done, they gave him quite a lecture, but he would not budge an inch, and for a number of years the Mexican lady acted as housekeeper.

The SeQUEL. offspring of George Walters.

She disappeared several years ago, and nothing more was heard of her until a few days ago, when her son and daughter, who first made their appearance in George's home, presented themselves and claimed to be his children. They have placed their case in the hands of a prominent lawyer, and will make a strong fight for the estate, which is valued at over $30,000.

They claim to have proof positive that their mother and Mr. Walters were legally married during her residence under his roof as housekeeper, and they will make a hard fight for their rights.

The boy is but 17 years of age, and the girl 12. They are bright children, and it is said by those who knew Mr. Walters that they strongly resemble him. days ago, when her son and daughter, who

Taken as a whole, the case is one of the most romantic that has been brought to light for some time past.

Horace Bell, who was a personal friend of Mr. Walters, says he knows positively that the couple were never married, and he is just as sure that the children are not the offspring of Walters.

CITY BUSINESS.

Board of Health and Police Commis-sion at Work Again.

There was more activity than usual for the past two weeks at the Mayor's office yesterday, His Honor having returned home from his trip to San Francisco. There have been no meetings of the Police and Fire Commissions and Board of Health during Mr. Workman's absence, and a considerable amount of routine business had accumulated, to dispose of which a meeting of the Board of Health and Police Commission were held yesterday afternoon. BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Board of Health was called to order at 2:30 o'clock, with the Mayor presiding. and Messrs. Collins, Gibbs, Humphreys and Hanley present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, after which Super-intendent Horner reported that the street sprinkling was being done in a satisfactory manner.

Co. could not do good work, and that the Nichoil's ditch, put in by this firm, was worthless. There was some further discussion, after which it was decided to give other firms a chance. Mr. Gibbs saying that he did not care to audit bills for 75 per cent. more than the same work—could be done for.

he did not care to audit bills for 75 per cent. more than the same work could be done for.

Mr. Black, who is interested in the Odorless Excavator Company, appeared before the board and asked that he be allowed to appoint a sanitary inspector to assist in looking up the cleaning of cesspools, as if somethins was not done he would probably lose all the money he had invested. It was the sense of the meeting that it would not be good policy to allow such an officer, as he would be overzealous, but Mr. Black was authorized to have a man go over the city, and in case he found a place that should be cleaned, he should report the same to the Health Officer, who would instruct what steps should be taken.

Another long discussion here ensued on the water question, in which Mr. Globs said that he considered the proposition of the water company to put up 200 hydrants, furnish water, etc., for sprinkling purposes, at $250 per month was too much. He opposed the proposition, and said that he would oppose it if it was not lower. The discussion grew quite warm, and Mr. Hanley moved that the water company be offered $2 per month for 200 hydrants for two years. This proposition was not definitely agreed upon, and it was proposed that the matter go over until the necessary figures could be secured. The members continued to talk on the subject, when the Mayor was instructed to offer the water company $2 per hydrant for 290 hydrants for 10 months each year for two years, and, if it agrees to it, that he submit the proposition to the Council at its next meeting.

Adjourned.

Immediately after the adjournment of the Beard of Health the Police Commis-sioners met, with Mayor Workman and Mr. Humphreys present, and Chief Cuddy ab-sent. A number of bills which had accu-mulated were read, approved and ordered paid, among them a bill from John Mo-loney of $400 for the patrol wagon, and an-other from Ayers & Lynch for $136 for loney of $400 for the patrol wagon, and another from Ayers & Lynch for $136 for printing.

At this point Mr. Humphreys asked whether there was any report as to dives that should be closed, and whether the sergeants had made any report about tan games. Clerk Moffatt said that he did not understand that the board wished to do anything beyond approving the bills, and was not prepared with the papers. Mr. Humphreys also asked about the Missing Link and fatherland saloons, which were granted licenses on condition that no women should be employed. He said that he understood that women were still employed, which was not contradicted.

Clerk Moffatt explained the various bills, which were ordered paid.

The reports of the officers were submitted, the sergeants and captain reporting that there had been a number of gambling games running. Attention was called to the situation in Chinatown, and Mr. Humphreys suggested that the officers attention be called to the original orders of the board.

The board then adjourned until Wednes-

A Jovial Reception and Entertain-ment Last Night. Stanton Post No. 55, G.A.R., meets on the third Friday of every month, for a social reunion, at the old Masonic Temple, No. 291/4 South Spring street. Mystic Masonic symbols looked down from the walls last evening on a crowded meeting, and the varied hues from the chandeliers set off the statwart men with their Grand Army badges, and the bright-eyed women with no badges but all the more patriotism.

L. H. Whitson, Jr. V.C., looked like a high priest in the choir of state, with his pointed gray beard, and presided with dignity. A basket of flowers stood before him.

"Marching Through Georgia" was sung, and then Judge B. N. Smith of Illinois, the orator of the evening, gave the poem so approcriate to the occasion, "Sheridan's Ridd. He followed this up with an oration soliid with facts and fervent with patriotism, closing with a brilliant peroration on the General who has just passed away.

Miss Mabel J. Marshall then rendered the "British Patrol" in an exquisite manner and was loudly applauded. The Briton, however, hardly comes up to his Turkish cousin.

Capt J. L. Skinner of Post 55 then came Capt J. L. Skinner of Post 55 then came to the front with his old war sword. After vainly trying to buckle it around his tapering walst, he gave to the audience its history. He told them how he had raised a company at Amherst, Mass., in 1861, and had joined it as a private; how he had got his commission on the battlefield and exchanged his Springfield rifled musket for that sword; how it had been through many battles, till when Butler was bottled up on the railroad between Richmond and Petersburg, in May, 1864, the sword was captured by rebel Capt. Hill, and worn by him through the rest of the war. Finally, in 1882, Mollie F. Hill of Oak Park, Va., returned him his sword, in recognition of which Sumuer Post No. 3 of San Francisco sent her an elegant badge.

the "Spanish Duel" and a Spanish song, to boot.

Miss Lillie Buckingham and Miss Florence Ellis then gave recitations in good, dramatic style, and were rewarded with the applause of all present.

Mrs. Mary E. Hartwell, a member of the relief corps, next recited a beautiful paraphase of Reid's famous poem, in which she depicted the "General passing away." The poem was original, and reflected great credit on its author.

Meanwhile Mrs. Alice A. Fitch, President of the Stanton Relief Corps, No. 16, made the tallest man in the room hang up the slik bedquilt, made of red and white triangles with a handsome center piece. The 900 white triangles each hold a name, and each name cost 10 cents, so the quilt represents a cool $90 in their fund. After the exercises the ladies passed refreshments around to all, while Comrade H. H. Matlock got in his work. He picked up the elegant basket of flowers which stood on the stage—the gitt of Mrs. M. L. York—and started a vote for them, to be given to the handsomest lady in the room at 10 cents a vote. Brother Matlock did the talking, while Commander Whitson came down from his patriarchal chair and raked in the shekels. Meaïwhile a group around the plano sang patriotic songs, and Mrs. Dr. Brunson told the reporter over his ice cream how they catch 400-pound fish at Redondo Beach.

Amid the singing and chatting the ballot-

A complant was received against Officer McNeil by Mrs. Bottsford, saying that McNeil had abused her because she had called him up to take charge of a dead horse. On motion, the complaint was revelved and filed and the officer instructed to be more careful in future.

Mr. McNeil reported that there were quite a number of giandered horses in the city, and that Burlingame had refused to pay for the removal of dead animals. Dr. Recess also called attention to the fact that streets, and the officer was instructed to approve the ordinances.

A number of bills were read, approved and ordered paid.

There was the usual discussion over Mc-Neil's bill for disposing of dead animals. The matter has come up before every meeting of the Health Board since McNeil's apparent of the members seem to know just what the officer's dutles are.

VIGILANTES IN ARMS AGAINST BAD CHARACTERS.

Vagrants, "Macs" and Prostitutes or Traveling-They Scatter-A Big Delegation Heading for Los Angeles.

Jailer W. H. Russell returned home ves terday morning from the northern part of the State, where he went on Monday night last to take Elton to San Quentin and an Russell also brought back with him a couple Russell also brought back with him a couple of horse thieves captured some days ago near Bakersfield. The men are Mexicans, named Pilas Monroy and Domingo Baltrom, and they will be confined in the County Jail until their cases are disposed of. Mr. Russell reports a very bad state of affairs existing at Fresno, where matters have reached such a point that a vigilance committee, comprising some of the best men in the town, has been organized to clear the town of bad characters. On Saturday night last a meeting was held in Armory Hail at that place, and the objectionable classes, consisting of "macs," toughs and prostitutes, were brought before the meeting. A noose had been put up in the hail, and they were given the option of leaving town or being strung up. Mr. Russell says that when he passed up Tuesday morning there was a large crowd at the depot, and about 60 of the hardest looking characters he has ever seen were forced upon the train. These men got off at different piaces along the route, in gangs of four and five, but from their conversation the great-majority of them were heading for Truckee, which, he says, seems to be a sort of headquarters for them. Quite a number got off at Merced, and at Stockton five or six also stopped over. At the latter place, the men had only been in town an hour or two, when they were "spotted" by the Chief of Police and ordered to move on. They at once drew their revolvers and fired on the Chief, missing him, however, after which they were placed under arrest. On his return trip, Mr. Russell passed Fresno Thursday night, and there was enother large crowd at the depot, and another consignment of "disreputables" was shipped south, among whom were half a dozen or more women, who came on the train with their effects done up in paper bundles under their arms, as though they had left in a hurry. This party slos got off the train in small squads at stations along the line, but most of them said that their objective point was Los Angeles. Mr. Russell says that at most of the smaller towns near Fresno the authorities have been warned of the probable arrival of these people, and that they took the latter alternative. It was said that at first the vigilantes wore masks, but that latterly they have discarded any attempts at concealment, and now go about their work boldly and openly. One of the women said that he had posended to be one of the same of the

BOYS IN BLUE.

ENTHUSIASTIC VETERANS AT ANAHEIM LANDING.

Campfire-Big Audience-Some Good Speeches—Pensions for Dis-abled Soldiers—Old Songs Resung -Reminiscences of the War.

ANAHEIM LANDING, Aug. 17. -[Special Correspondence of The The exercises last evening consisted of a campfire, and the old soldiers assembled in full force to enjoy the "tales of field and flood" and live over again the scenes of battle. The pavilion was literally packed with people, and the crowd overflowed into the street and hovered around the outside of the large tent. When the band struck up "We'll Rally Round the Flag, Boys," not a soul was present but felt the enthusiasm and patriotism

COMRADE BROOKER was the first speaker, and responded as

"Comrades, Ladies and Gentlemen: In speaking of reminiscences of the war, what can I say that is not a common experience to us all? We all entered the army and served our country for a common purpose. Our trials, our triumphs, and our sufferings in army life were all in the same line. October 19, 1864, at Cedar Creek, Va., there was a victory won by the soldiers under the direction of Sheridau. [Storm of applause.] In that engagement, my comrades, it happened to be my good fortune to participate as a private. By the courtesy of the press I have been designated as 'Col.' John Booker, but my discharge reads Private John Brooker. I have, since the war, served in other capacities with different States as Colonel, but in the United States Army I was a privats. Reminiscences of payday will strike every States Army I was a private. Remin-iscences of pay-day will strike every soldier. We all remember, with pain, that the sutler always had to be settled with before the paymaster would settle with us, and sometimes there would not be anything coming to us for six months."

Comrade Brooker then referred to the matter of pensions for disabled soldiers an I asked the moral support of the comrades in laying this matter before the Legislature in a petition that those old veterans, who had heart, loyalty and nerve to serve their coun-try, be kept out of the poorhouse dur-ing their life.

COMRADE J. E. M'COMAS was the next speaker on the programme and humorously said: "It is pardonable on the part of the old soldier to talk a bit of himself and what he's done. I hop we'll have these reunions every ye r as long as there's a gray-headed soldier in Los Angeles county. It's like the quarterly love feast we Methodists have when we tell of our ups and downs. Our experigray-headed soldier in Los Angeles county. It's like the quarterly love feast we Methodists have when we tell of our ups and downs. Our experiences were varied; sometimes we had turkeys and chickens, you know lapplause], and then there were dark days, too, when we plolded through the livelong night, in mud and rain, to save our country; and it is proper that we meet again and fight the battles o'er. I want to tell you one story of how I made a rebel parson preach a Union sermon, and I believe I did God service. We were quartered down South, and a foyal man came to me and said, I want to tell you there's a rebel preacher, here, and ho just pour out the vialle of wrath on us reg'ian every Sunday, and prays most fervently for the protection of Jeff Davis and his sainted followers. I made up my mind I'd hear that parson; so the next Sunday I took six of the boys along and went to church. We flied in and took the front seat, right before the pulpit, and awaited developments. Pretty soon they sung a long-meter bymn, and then were on the grounds yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller and Mr. D. W. Hamlin of Los Angeles arrived Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller and Mr. D. W. Hamlin of Los Angeles arrived Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller and Mr. D. W. Hamlin of Los Angeles arrived the Shiloh Post, arrived on the Cabinet, the Union Army and the success of the Union cause, and you see that you do it. Well, there were seven of us boys, and we looked pretty formidable, as if we were a little more shere, and I guess the parson thought he had better obey orders, but, I tell you, it was hard work. For about 15 minutes be prayed the coldest prayer I ever listened to. He prayed for Greenland first, and then China and Japan and all Europe, and finally he got over to Alaska, and he kept a warmin' up all the time, till, at last, he reacted the United States, and said. O Lord! bless there, and I guess the parson thought he nad better obey orders, but, I tell you, it was hard work. For about 15 minutes he prayed the coldest prayer I ever listened to. He prayed for Greenland first, and then China and Japan and all Europe, and Jaully he got over to Alaska, and he kept a warmin' up all the time, till, at last, he reached the United States, and said, 'O Lord! bless the President—even Abraham Lincoln,' and I hollered 'Amen! amen!' at the top of my voice. Then he prayed for the generals of the Union Army and the soldiers of the Union Army, and I yelled 'Amen!' ever time. And he got so warmed up to his subject that he actually prayed for more'n I'd asked him to, and wound up with: 'O Lord, grant success to the Union cause, and hasten the day when the Stars and Stripes will wave all over the United States, from Maine to Florida!' You might call. It praying under difficulties, but the parson did well, considering the circumstances."

That tender, pathetic war song, that appeals to every loyal heart, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." was then very beautifully rendered by Mrs. John McClure with a quartet chorus.

COMRADE IRVIN of Malver.

of Malvern Hill Pest was next called upon to respond to the toast, "Where the Chickens Roosted in the South," upon to respond to the toast, "Where the Chickens Roosted in the South," and said: "I don't know why they put a preacher up to talk on this subject, for it's a very tender one. I've never preached a sermon in chickenology, gooseology or turkeyology. I know I've eaten some chickens in the army, but I don't say I ever tampered with a chicken roost, and I don't want to go back on these comrades. They used to invite me to eat chicken with 'em, and they always claimed they paid for 'em and I be lieved it. [Applause and laughter.] But, seriously speaking, there were times during the war when the hunger and famine was so great that a man was almost pardonable if he appropriated whatever he could find in the line of provisions. I know that I offered $5 for a peck of corn for my horse and could not get it, and the noble animal died of absolute starvation. I've seen mules eat the tongue of a wagon entirely off. Put men in that position, and do you wonder that they defended themselves against biting chickens?" The Chaplain then related some stories concerning army life.

After music by the band Comrade

After music by the band Comrade Mudge of Shiloh, Post was introduced, and spoke as follows:

"We are here as old soldiers to talk of those scenes that are passed. It seems but a short time since we shouldered our muskets and faced the missiles of death at Vicksburg, at Shiloh and at Chickamauga, but 25 years have passed since then. At these reunions we hear very little said of the navy, and I wish to speak of the gallant deeds done upon our rivers and coasts, when the navy poured forth its leaden hail upon the enemy. All honor to Farragut, to Porter and their noble followers!" The speaker then told a humorous story of the "army threshing machine," which called forth peals of laughter from the audience.

A collection was then taken, followed by a song, "Can a Soldier Ever Forget?" by Mrs. McClure.

This closed the programme of exercises, but at its close Comrade Brooker stepped forward and said he wished to introduce some new-comers, and then presented Comrade T. S. Taylor, Assistant Adjutant-General of the department, from San Francisco, who was greeted with deafening applause and three rousing cheers by the surprised and delighted audience.

Comrade Taylor responded in a few well-timed remarks. "I am here," he said, "to represent the commander of this department, who is unable to be present. He sends most cordial greetings, and is extremely sorry he cannot be here with you. We've found in Northern Callifornia that these reunions are just the thing to knit together the ties of brotherhood among the comrades. It tends to gather in those who are outside the fold. As Adjutant General I can report to you that from 3500 members of the Grand Army enrolled three years ago, the number has swelled to 6252."

J. B. Lanck, A.D.C., and T. K. Stateler, S.V.G., of San Francisco: George E. Gard, Past S.V.C., and Comrade L. S. Butler, P.C., of Los Angeles, were one after the other introduced, and each responded in a few well chosen words.

They claim that protection benefits only the wealthy manufacturers and monopolists, and that it is a downright imposition on the laboring man. What vile fellows they must be, according to their own account! They profess to believe that protection is wrong in principle and a legalized method of robbing those who labor, and yet they favor it! Thus are they self-proclaimed robbers and aiders and abettors of robbery! "Batherand free trade occupy a very prominent Pursuing his course up Raymond, the runaway horse soon came in contact with an elegant new buggt belonging to Mr. Parker, and, taking off a wheel of the buggy, continued through several streets, breaking the vehicle to which he was attached, and at last accounts was rushing out Passadena avenue with the forward part of the running gear still attached to him.

Another runaway was averted yesterday afternoon through the resolution of a young boy named Frank Stevens, who stopped a horse just as it started from in front of the Stevens hardware store.

THIS is the dullest time of the year in Los Angeles. More than ten per cent of our population are at the sea side of in the mountains. Next month they will begin to return and the Odd Fellows will arrive, when a change will come o'er the spirit of the dream Meantime Los Angeles is very far from being a deserted village.

CALIFORNIA grape-growers are com bining to dry their grapes, instead of selling them to the wine-makers at ruinous prices. Dried grapes can be made to net at least $18 per ton for green grapes. Wine-makers are talking about $8 a ton in this section. This is quite a marked difference.

WHERE does liberty end and license begin? Every Sunday 200 children are instructed in Anarchist doctrines in a room connected with a low saloon in Chicago. Another school of 150 pupils has been established, and it is said an advanced school is to be started, in which the making of explosives will be taught.

A FRIEND of THE TIMES says: have a good old uncle in Virginia who has been a lifelong Democrat. He is now past 80, and has never in all his life voted anything but an out-and-out ocratic ticket. But this year he is going to vote for Harrison and Morton, as will his sons, for they cannot swallow the Democratic free-trade heresy."
This is but a single instance of the aking up of the Democratic ranks.

Indian Rights and Settlers' Wrongs.

We have received the Fifth Annual Report of the Executive Committee of the Indian Rights Association. The object of the association, as stated in its constitution, is:

"To secure to the Indians of the United States the political and civil rights already guaranteed to them by treaty and statutes of the United States, and such as their civilization and circumstances may justify."

This is a praiseworthy object, to which no exception can be taken by any reasonable man. It is however. open to question whether the association, in its efforts to secure the rights of the Indians, does not frequently overlook the fact that white American citizens, residing in Indian-infested sections, have also some rights which should be respected-such, for instance, as the possession of life and property.

These eastern friends of the Indian are, for the most part, honest, worthy people, actuated by praiseworthy motives, but they argue on the Indian question from the standpoint of theoretical philanthropists, who, seated in their comfortable studies, view the Indian from a distance of three thousand miles, as a picturesque abstraction-s chivalrous being of noble instincts whose rights are continually being trampled upon by brutal white settlers Unfortunately, in a majority of cases, a very different picture is the true one A dirty, lazy, treacherous animal, gorging himself whenever he has the chance and murdering in an objectles manner for the very lust of blood. Nor is it any more correct to say that the Indians are, as a rule, ill-treated, or their rights ig nored by the whites. The Indian has more than equal rights with the whites. After raiding, burning and murdering for weeks, he returns, when tired of the recreation, to his reservation, where United States troops prevent the white ettlers from avenging in a summary manner-as they would upon criminals of their own kind-their demolished homes, outraged wives, and tortured children. Can it be wondered at that men who have gone through such experiences-who have left a peaceful home and happy, smiling family in the morning, to return at evening and find a heap of cinders and the mutilated remains of loved ones, to whom death came as a blissful relief-can it be wondered that peaceful, law-abiding citizens of the United States, who have witnessed such things, and have then een the perpetrators sheltered by the Federal Government, should have little patience with the pretty "universal brotherhood" theories of these eastern humanitarians, who have never seen a live Indian, except as a member of deputation or in a dime museum?

The raid of the Chiricahua Apaches during 1885-'6 was a sample of the condition of things to which we have re-After an altogether unproferred. voked outbreak from the reservationthe result of a drunken orgie and innate deviltry-during which hundreds of homes were destroyed, women outraged and killed, men slowly roasted to death and children impaled, these wanton butchers were met by a United States general in solemn parley and their surrender accepted, with the condition that their lives should not be forfeit. Would similar terms ever have been made with American citizens who had committed one tithe of the crimes of which these flends were guilty? We opine not. Regardless of the protests of those who sought law-ful vengeance for the blood of their wives and children, these Indians were shipped to Florida, their families be ing permitted to accompany them. Several pages of the report in question are devoted to the case of these In dians, on whose behalf it appears that a special agent was sent to Florida by the association to inquire into their condition—to see, we presume, whether the War Department furnished the ex-murderers with the best grade of coffee. The report deplores the fact that among the exiled were several United States scouts. Now, it is well known that but for these scouts the latest bloody raid would have terminated much sooner. Belonging to the same tribe, they use their position in the United States Army to furnish aid and encouragement to the hostiles, and frequently slipped off and joined them. Says the report: That these men should have been imprisoned with those who were waging waragainst the United States, and that their fidelity, and, in some instances, their invaluable services to our arms, should have been rewarded by captivity, was a fact well calculated to excite the surprise and condemnation of the public.

This is true, in one sense. The public, who were cognizant of the facts. were both surprised and disgusted that these men did not suffer the punish ment of their crimes. However, the authorities claimed that this was the only way to bring the weary tale of bloodshed to a termination, so let that pass. There is, though, little excuse for maudlin sympathy with men whose panther-like agility on the war-path alone saved their necks.

Another paragraph in the report re fers to Chato, the notorious scout:

A few cases of men thus unjustly confined may be cited as interesting examples of the injustice inflicted upon these Indians. The case of Chato, the most prominent man among them, is one in point, Chato, previous to the year 1882, was noteriously hostile, and, doubtless, committed many such acts of violence as are characteristic of Indians in their savage state. But in the summer of 1883 he surrendered to Gen. Crook in the Sierra Madre Mountains, at which time he m de a promise of good behavior for the future, which, so far as any trustworthy evidence which has been presented to the public is concerned he has never violated. fers to Chato, the notorious scout:

presented to the never violated. Chato was one of the most blood thirsty of the whole murderous gang. He had waded in the blood of innocent white men and women. His being sent to Washington, after his surrender, to confer with the authorities, caused an indignant outcry throughout the two Territories.

One more extract from this report and we have done. Referring to the recent removal of the Chiricahuas from Fiorida to Alabama, it says:

This change, while it still leaves many things to be desired for the future of these Indians, is a great gain, in regard to space and healthfulness, over confinement in the crowded quarters of St. Augustine.

How very thoughtfull How truly humanitarian! How altogether above the mental plane of poor, tempestossed passionate natives. The association, after an expenditure of much time, labor and money, not to say political influence, has succeeded in obtaining for these Indians more spacious apartments in a pleasanter climate. An easy and happy life shall they now lead, these red-handed murderers and their squaws-the latter the worse of the two, whose chief delight was to inflict upon the maimed and helpless victims tortures which only fiends incarnate could invent and which no decent journal could describe. And the innocent victims of these men, O ye eastern humanitarians-and the survivors; have you no thought for them—the man from whom your proteges removed, at one fell swoop, all that his heart held dear and who now wanders alone, a despairing and a desperate man; or the young widow who has to face a stony world to gain for herself and children a living which her husband's two strong arms were once so proud to earn for her? She would be grateful for the support which your Indians received in Florida, even though the quarters were somewhat crowded. Surely these unfortunates have at least as much claim upon your sympathy as have the interesting criminals whose cause you so ably champion. 'Tis true, their skins are white, which is, perhaps, in your eyes, a disadvantage, but their hearts are now very black with hatred, and mistrust, and doubthatred of your wards, mistrust of a government under which such things can vagabond? Think of these things a little, humanitarian men and brethren, and perchance, while you battle for Indian rights, you may find it in your hearts to aid a little in obtaining from a just and merciful government some solace for those white men and women who have suffered such cruel wrongs.

Surplus-Tariff.

President Cleveland in his tariff message to Congress says:

"Our scheme of taxation, by means of which this needless surplus is taken from the people and put into the public treasury, consists of a tariff or duty levied upon importations from abroad, and internal revenue taxes levied upon the consumption of tobacco and spirituous and mait liquors. It must be conceded that none of the things subject to unternal-revenue taxation are subject to internal-revenue taxation, are strictly speaking, accessaries; there ap-pears to be no just complaint of this taxa-tion by the consumers of these articles, and tion by the consumers of these articles, and there seems to be nothing so well able to bear the burdens without hardship to any portion of the peo

Considering that laboring men are the chief consumers of intoxicating liquors, and that the burdens of this tax must fall upon them, with conse quent suffering to their families, the last clause of the above ought to in spire our Prohibition friends with the most devout enthusiasm to secure the reëlection of Cleveland!

It will be observed that President Cleveland clearly indicates his opposition to the removal of the tax from intoxicating liquors. This tax, last year, amounted to $87,000,000, a tax which Prohibitionists demand shall be removed, because "our National Government is deriving support from our greatest national vice.

If the tax on intoxicating liquors is retained, then, in order to reduce our surplus revenue, our import duties must be reduced. The surplus last year was a little more than $103,000,000, and hence, if we would get rid of it, we must reduce our tariff to that extent, which substantially means free trade.

If we cease to collect the tax on distilled and fermented liquors, import duties remaining the same as now, then there would remain only a surplus of $16,000,000, which, under the increasing demands for needed public improvements, we believe, would not be "dangerous." The Prohibitionists propose to take the tax off from intoxicating liquors, and must therefore leave the tariff substantially as it is now, or, if they remove this tax and materially reduce the tariff on foods, clothing and other comforts and neces saries of life, then they must resort to direct taxation to carry on the affairs of government.

The Republican party proposes to first repeal the tax on tobacco and on spirits used in the arts and for mercantile purposes, which would reduce the Government revenue $30.000,000. If after doing this the revenue sho still be too large, then they would favor the entire repeal of internal taxes "rather than surrender any part of our protective system at the behest of whisky trusts and the agents of foreign manufactories."
While the Prohibitionists would have failed to say by what means they would raise the necessary revenue for the support of the Government. Their tariff plank is, for or against a tariff, in the last degree hypocritical and intended to be so. It seems to us if it was important or expedient for their national convention to say anything about the tariff, it was most expedi ent that they should not—in the lan-guage of their first declaration—forget that "Almighty God is the source of all power in government." It is interesting to mark the religious fervor which inspires their speakers to talk of "God and home and native land," while, at the same time, they applaud a platform intended to deceive the people upon one of the important issues of the canvass.

THE San Bernardino County Republican Central Committee was organized on the 11th inst., with the following officers: Dr. J. M. Hurley, chairman; A. S. White, vice-chairman; H. A. Keller, secretary; Jos. Brown, treasurer. Executive Committee: Dr. J. M. Hurley, A. S. White, A. A. Courtney, W. C. Clarke, J. M. Nash, Joseph Brown, Capt. A. S. Davidson.

The primaries are to be held on the 22d prox.; the nominations for county officers are to be made on the 29th prox. A letter from Secretary Keller says: 'It is the determination to make the ticket win from the top to the bottom, and there is no reason why it should not. The utmost confidence prevails. Clubs are forming at all the principal places in the county. San Bernardino does herself proud with a club list of over 700.

THE TIMES is glad to hear so favorable a report from the San Bernardino Republicans, and bids them Godspeed in their good work. THE English agriculturists are in a deplorable plight. It is predicted that the wheat yield this year will not be more than one-third of that of 1887. There seems little doubt that the climate of England has been gradually changing for the worse. A few centu ries ago vines were grown and wine made to a considerable extent in that country. Now, there is seldom a sea son when wheat can be grown to perfection. This, however, is not the only cause of the falling off in production Notwithstanding the advantage of having no heavy transportation charges to pay, English farmers cannot compete with the cheap labor of Continental Europe and India, or the perfected machinery and cheap lands of the United States. In other words, freetrade is ruining the English farmer.

JOHN CLARK RIDPATH, who came to California with the American Horticultural Society, has written a description of his trip, with his impressions, under the title of "Beyond the Sierras," in which he writes in a very enthusiastic and complimentary manner of the scenes which he witnessed. Los Angeles was unfortunately smothered in mud when the excursionists were here, and their impressions of this city were consequently not so favorable as they might have been.

WHILE so many bloody criminals cape through the meshes of the law, it is too bad that innocent men should suffer, yet that occasionally happens, notwithstanding the safeguards which modern jurisprudence casts around the accused. It has just been discovered that a young man named Miller hanged at Charlottetown, P. E. I., for murdering his sweetheart, was innocent. The real criminal swore his life

Opp things about the war are constantly coming to the surface. The latest is the publication of a letter by Gen. Lee, written when the Confeder acy was in extremes, advocating the arming of slaves, with the promise of emancipation as a bounty, if they would fight for the South.

THE latest chimerical proposition to ameliorate the condition of the work ing classes is a bill introduced in Con gress, fixing the minimum wages which may be paid to men, women and minors. Such attempts to interfere in an arbitrary manner with the law of supply and demand within Union are impracticable and Quixotic.

READERS of THE TIMES, who are going to take the stump this fall, will be pleased to learn that an Indiana judge has decided that a man who had beer assailed with rotten eggs is justified in shooting with intent to kill.

San Bernardino's Columbus Exhibit.

[San Bernardino Courier.]

Interest is increasing in the Columbus and Cincinnati exhibit, especially among our large land owners, who are beginning to see that our exhibit at those two cities will do much to place before the people of the East an idea of our wonderful resources, and the consequence is that the

of our wonderful resources, and the consequence is that the Board of Trade is receiving encouraging inducements to send an exhibit. The prevailing opinion seems to be that the best of the exhibit now at the fair in Los Angeles, especially the mineral specimens, should be taken and added to and sent on at the proper time. This will save much trouble in collecting an entirely new display, and the one now in Los Angeles is a fine one and will attract a great deal of attention in the East.

Eastern people are all anxious to learn anything regarding California, and if an exhibit can be placed before their eyes, showing what we can produce here, they will take delight in examining it carefully, and it will create an increased desire to visit California and eventually to settle in our beautiful country.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] A dispatch from New Iberia says: A certain class of idle and immoral characters being ordered away, many took refuge at Freetown, a village composed entirely of negro families. Here 500 to 600 men congregated and armed themselves. Then the residents and property-owners of this section collected, and, finding a large body of armed negroes, as reported, demanded a surrender of their arms. A number accepted these terms. On Thursday morning 15 armed negroes took possession of the colored minister's house, refusing to surrender. The whites, hearing of this, sent a message with a command that they lay down their weapons within 20 minutes. The negroes again refused. At the expiration of the time a volley was fired at them, which soon be-came a general fusilade, lasting nearly an hour. Finally F. R. Smith, a white man, was shot dead. The negroes became panic-stricken and fled. When the fight was over, the bodies of eight negroes were found in the house and five others were found outside. It is rumored that three or four more men were killed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] In the cases of the naval cadets recently tried by court-martial at Annapolis for hazing and sentenced to dis-missal, the President has commuted the sentence to confinement for 3J days and the deprivation of half the annual leave. The President says: "The offense of which the accused were convicted is an unmanly and cowardly one, which for all reasons de-served the severest condemnation. It has been exceedingly difficult for me to consider the applications for elemency which have been addressed me by friends of the parties under conviction, but I am led to hope that if leniency is shown in these cases, the punishment which the offenders will still suffer, though less than dismissal, will suffer, though less than dismissal, will suffer for their correction and as a warning to their fellow cadets. I desire it distinctly understood that the clemency granted in these cases is not to be considered a precedent for future executive interference, and that the severity of sentence recommended upon future convictions will be executed.

He supposes, however, that it would be within the right of Canada to withdraw from it, since the proposition came from their side. As to the further policy of the Government the Secretary had nothing to say. "The Republican Senators," he said, "have put themselves against every possible treaty. Editor of THE TIMES.] A late issue of your paper says that "Vrooman is characterized by the respectable citizens of Alameda County as a professional briber and corruptionist." I am an Oakland pioneer, and know who are the respectable citizens of that county and what they think of a man whomthey delight to honor. I have also watched the quick climb of Senator Vrooman from laborious poverty to the leadership of men. It has been a refreshing sight every year of the last 20, for it is the evidence that a courageous, masterful man can in these United States attain any height he deserves, with no capital or assistance. He has made himself and others, but others have not made him. Employed as a safe counsellor by several corporations, among which is the Central Pacific Railroad, he has, of course, been spoken of by the unthinking men as a person who would serve his employers outside the line of his duty. His neighbors and friends know better. They know how he has advised corporations to open their ears to the public needs, and has influenced them in the direction of his non-paying chents, the people. When he ran for the Senate two years ago the cry of "Boss" was raised, as is usual whenever an invincible man offers himself to the ordeal of suffrage. Then "the respectable citizens of Alameda county" seemed to rise en masse, declaring that no man could be a boss in that atmosphere, but that this man was their chosen leader. The papers were filled with the indgration of their voices. At the

that this man was their chosen leader. The papers were filled with the indgnation of their voices. At the pri ary election Vrooman carried every precinct in his district and received the convention nomination unanimously, simply because of these misstatements.

To those who know him well and In all manly relations, Henry Vrooman is an inspiring figure. The weak lean upon him and the strong delight to walk with him. Under the burden of mortal sickness he keeps and will keep until he drops under his disease his well-earned and most honorable place among men.

S. M. White congratulated the people of Ventura upon the fact that a little more than three years of Democratic rule has not ruined the country. It is a matter of congratulation, but he should have given the credit to a Reoublican Senate, and an increasing Republican minority in the House, for preventing the dreaded catastrophe.

The Bituminous Lime Rock Paving and Improvement Company
Take this opportunity of in orming the citizens and property-owners of this city that the pavement laid on Main street, between First and Third streets, is NOT bituminous lime rock, but is an artificial mixture, and NOT laid by our company. We make this announcement for the purpose of disabusing the minds of those who entertain the belief that this pavement was laid by this company, and are disposed to criticise our material as being soft and not suitable for the streets of this city. The only bitum nous lime rock pavement here was laid by this company, and extends on Main street from the south line of Third to Ninth street, and on Spring street from Temple to Ninth street. Bituminous lime rock does not become soft and mushy unfer the heat of the sun, but always remains, irm and elastic. We have already laid on the streets of this city about 500.000 square feet of this pavement, to which we take pleasure in invit-na inspection. Very respectfully yours. #### ANTELOPE VALLEY.

A RAPID RUN THROUGH THIS LARGE REGION.

Lying at the Northern Gateway of Los Angeles-lopography and Description of the Country-Prodncts, Population and Progress-Water, Grass and Fruit

Your correspondent has been rambling for a few days over Antelope Valley, in the northern part of Los Angeles county, and hastens to express his surprise at the extent and resources of this almost unknown land. I had no adequate idea of its value and position from anything I had heard or read of it. I saw before me a large basin, slightly inclined, surrounded on the north by Tehachapi Mountains and the Kern county hills, on the east by the Lovejoy Buttes, on the south by the Sierra Madres and on the west by the Frazier Mountains. This basin or valley is about 20 miles wide and 40 miles long, and situated at an altitude of 2300 feet. The topography of the country is such that the Southern Pacific Kailroad Company runs its cars through the mountain passes from the north into the valley and across it and non out monthe passes from the north into the valley and across it, and pop out upon the south side, and the Santa Fé is now about to extend its line from the east to the west and down the Tejon Pass. This valley is so situated as to be a connecting link between the north and the south and the east and the west, for these great railroads in Southern California. I found a large number of settlers in the railroads in Southern California. I found a large number of settlers in the west end of the valley who have just harvested and cared for their first crop, and they seemed delighted with their outlook and prospects, aithough I found at this end of the valley the zephyrs from the Tejon Pass, and the great depth to surface water agriculture. great depth to surface water serious drawbacks not experienced in the central and northeastern pottions of the valley. Still the soil seems good, and the growth of the trees, vines and grain Satisfactory, although no irrigation has been used so far. As I went east along the southern foothills I found a colony or Pasadena and eastern men called "Fairmont," which bids fair to be a great success. A few miles to the north is another of New Yorkers, called "Aurora" north is another of New Yorkers, called "Aurora."

The Methodist Church has a good building, capable of seating 300 people, at a place called Esperanza, about four miles east of Fairmont. One mile southeast of this place I found an artesian well, which is said to be 218 feet deep and flows 24 miners' inches of water, and two or three miles south of Esperanza are situated the oldest grain fields in the valley, some of these fields having this year yielded three tons of hay to the acre and others about thirty having this year yielded three tons or hay to the acre and others about thirty bushels of wheat of a very superior quality. Six or eight miles east of this is the railroad town of Lancastar. This town shows a lack of enter-prise, as the people living there have taken no pains to adorn it with flowers or shade trees except to a very limited extent. This town has the general ap-pearance of a poor forlorn orphan with pearance of a poor forlorn orphan with no one to care for it. There are two flowing artesian wells here, and the we flowing artesian wells here, and the ground is proven to be productive whenever properly handled. Mr. Case of the Lancaster Hotel has shown the interprise to care for a little piece of dialta next his hotel and has already out three crops, and the fourth will sam be ready to cut. These crops are remained to run about two and one-standard of grass to the acre at each ions of grass to the acre at each

The owner of the townsite seems to have given the improvement of the base mostly into the hands of Chinaders, and the "heathen chinee" seems indeed and the "heathen chinee" seems indeed and becoming to adorn the base than the owner, and content the set than the owner, and content the set than the owner, and content the set to the market. The few grapes and trees planted in the rear of the stries, out of sight from the railroad, looks well, but you have to hunt them up. It seems to be a settled principle of the owner to keep everything green out of sight, and we learn that he has even taken up his residence out of town, a little way in the country, but here he astonishes everyone who takes the trouble to look at his flowers, vines, trees and vegetables.

Being bound to see the country, I got a team and rode over to Rosamond, waitened station on the roots side of I'm owner of the townsite seems to got a team and rode over to Rosamone got a team and rode over to Rosamond, a railroad station on the north side of the valley. The location is favorable for future trade, and the soil is good. Near this place I saw a peach tree two feet high with fruit upon it. Coming back along the railroad track I found water in the holes not over three and a half or four feet from the surface, and, as I looked upon this grassy tract. I water in the holes not over three and a half or four feet from the surface, and, as I looked upon this grassy tract, I thought of the roots and alfalfa I had seen growing upon this soil.

Ten miles south of Lancaster in the foothills of the Sierra Madre. Alpine is located, and here is "mine host" Watkins, who is a good fellow and a good hunter, and a competent guide for the sportsman, be he after bear, panther, antelope, deer, quail or jacks.

Three or four miles northeast of Alpine is Palmdale, the thriving Germans colony, and the largest settlement in the valley. These sturdy Germans bave brought water from Little Rock Creek upon their land, and have erected their church and schoolhouse and settled down to make homes and money. A few miles east of here I visited the Big Rock Creek settlement, and saw a demonstration that these two streams are competent to furnish water for all the country between the Southern Pacific Railroad and the Loweloy Buttes, and, becoming interested in what I saw again took Lovejoy Buttes, and, becoming interested in what I saw, again took a team and rode across this great east country to the Buttes, and then north to team and rode across this great east country to the Buttes, and then north to to the outlet of the valley, which lies toward Rodgers's Station on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. I am not competent to convey a description of all I saw, but will simply say that I found here a large country which is smooth and level, and the soil moist efflough to raise alfalfa without surface irrigation and with good water but a few feet below the surface.

One artesian well, sunk 450 feet, has demonstrated that in this East country there are three strata of artesian water which will give good flows within this circuit. After looking over this valley I return to Los Angeles with a feeling of confidence that this city is bound to be a great city, as such a country as is found in this eastern portion of Antelope Valley alone is capable of building up and sustaining a large city whenever the country is settled, and it is surely being settled and by a class of men who never look backward but forward, with a steady eye and a strong hand.

I am informed that good arable land is to be had in this valley from $8 to $15 per acre, and the buyer can take his choice and select that adapted for alfalfa without irrigation, or that adapted for the deciduous fruits, grain or vines. The healthfulness of this mountain ar is unquestioned, and in all my travels I did not hear of a single case of chills and fever, and asthmatic and lung cases are benefited at once. I left the valley feeling strong and well and astonished that so little is known in Los Angeles about this great valley, which must in time prove an important factor in the development of the city. RAMBLER.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word malaria was comparatively unknown—today it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called billousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the liver, which, in performing its functions, finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel, is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, malaria, bilious fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

ice No Longer a Luxury is Les Angeles, Thanks to an Enterprising Company. The inhabitants of this progressive and appidity-growing city have another proof of the faith casteru capital has in its future the faith eastern capital has in its future. There was Tast been completed in this city the largest and best ice manufactory and cold-storage buildings in the world, by the Los Angeles Cold Storage and Hendrick Ice companies. The ice-making capacity is 56 tons daily. Our competitors claim that cheapening the price of ice will not increase its consump loc. We believe different We believe that ice is wanted for the preservation, in private house, of meats, milk, butter, vegetables, and for ice water, ice tea, ice cream and other purposes, and that the exceptiant prices only have heretofore prevented its general use. We are confident of your patronage, as we are the direct and only cause of the

The San Diego Bee notices at length a successful concert given in that city last Wednesday evening, at which appeared Miss Mary L. Cobb, a well-known young lady of Los Angeles. The Bee says: "She captivated her listeners by her exquisite rendition of those gems, "The Spinner L. ed,' by Liszt, and one of Chopin's 'Nocturns,' which showed her complete mastery of the plano. She was rapturously encored, and responded in a graceful manner with Chopin's 'Impromptu.' She wore a handsome black-silk costume, trimmed with jet and lace, and a corsage bouquet of white roses."
